Speaker bio

Andrew Tsonchev, Director of Technology for Darktrace Industrial

Andrew is a technical expert on cyber security and advises Darktrace's strategic customers on advanced threat defense, AI and autonomous response.

He has a background in threat analysis and research, and holds a first-class degree in physics from Oxford University and a first-class degree in philosophy from King's College London.

Andrew's comments on cyber security and the threat to critical national infrastructure have been reported in international media, including CNBC and the BBC.